

Those who are gifted are called spirians, a race that is not quite human, but not quite spirit either. They are caught between the physical and spiritual realms where anything is possible. In book 1, Skye learns about her Spirian side and grows to know Khalen Dunning, a powerful man that could easily claim her soul. Living among other Spirians, her gifts intensify beyond everyone's expectations, including Case, the Protected's wisest elder. He knows that a union between Khalen and Skye would be a powerful one; a bond that would enforce the strength of the race. To what lengths will Traeger, Khalen's darker twin, go to ensure that the union between his brother and Skye does not take place? How far will Khalen go to protect Skye? Until now, his power to take a life has been subdued. What would happen if that control was abolished and his gifts were unleashed? The gauntlet is tossed and retrieved. The outcome will change the direction of the Spirian race forever.
